

LEED Committee

The LEED Committee works to identify and create tangible programs designed to educate various constituencies about the LEED Certified buildings within the Chapter's broad geographic region. The first project of this Committee perhaps best illustrates the Committee's focus -- i.e., design of an interactive "mapping" system accessible via the Chapter's website of all LEED Certified buildings in our region, including statistical and other attributes/strategies about each project and a general look at how such projects were Certified. By providing case study-like information about the Chapter's LEED Certified projects, as well as pictures, the Committee will be effectively recognizing excellence in green-building practices and performance, as well as promoting those companies that are walking the walk in our region.

The Chair of the LEED Committee works with the Communications Chair and the Executive Director to bring its projects to fruition. The Executive Committee is a prime resource for the Committee. As with all activities under the Chapter's umbrella, actions of this Committee are subject to resource constraints and Board approval.
